DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The abstract of the disclosure is objected to because the title of the invention, "METHOD AND APPARATUS FOR SINGLE BURST EQUALIZATION OF SINGLE CARRIER SIGNALS IN BROADBAND WIRELESS ACCESS SYSTEM," should be deleted.

Correction is required. See MPEP § 608.01(b).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Goodson et al., Goodson hereinafter (US patent number 5,636,244, newly cited).

Goodson teaches a receiver for filtering the received signal having an adaptive filter (figs. 4 and 6), wherein the filter comprising: a coefficients selector (650) responsive to the impulse response corresponding the characteristics of the channel (claimed single carrier) calculated by the calculator (730-750) for selecting a subset of the coefficient; and an adaptive equalizer (440) for equalizing the received according to the selected coefficients as in claim 2.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Goodson et al., Goodson hereinafter (US patent number 5,636,244, newly cited) in view of Tanrikulu et al. (US patent number 7,103,177, of a record).

Goodson teaches a receiver for filtering the received signal having an adaptive filter (figs. 4 and 6), wherein the filter comprising: a coefficients selector (650) responsive to the impulse response corresponding the characteristics of the channel (claimed single carrier) calculated by the calculator (730-750) for selecting a subset of the coefficient; and an adaptive equalizer (440) for equalizing the received according to the selected coefficients as in claim 1. Goodson teaches that the channel characteristics are converted from time to-frequency, however Goodson is silent as to whether the filter is a time domain.

Tanrikulu for the same endeavor as the instant application and that of Goodson teaches a time domain filter (see fig. 6 and 7) for filtering the received signal using a subset of the coefficients.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of an ordinary skill in the art to use the time domain filter of Tanrikulu in the system of Goodson so that to minimize the complexity of the filtering (see col. 6, lines 1-16) at the time the invention was made.

Response to Amendment

6. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1 and 2 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
